CONFERENCES ROLLING

Dallas Meeting Sets Up Southwestern Conference

The first of the series of organizational conferences was set up in Dallas, Tex., September 13, by Secretary-Treasurer Howard Hicks and Director of Organization H. B. Douglas. This conference includes Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Texas and western Louisiana.

The delegates in attendance at the conference voted to contribute 25 cents per member per month with a minimum of $10 per month from each local union. The international Union will supplement these funds to the extent necessary to put a full-time organizer in this area. The delegates were enthusiastic about the program and hoped that within a short time additional organizers can be added to assist in the organization of office workers in the area.

Sad News, Girls: Men Are Scarcce

Young civilian men are growing scarce, the Census Bureau reported this week in a piece of bad news for the girls. For every 100 single girls of 18 or 19 last year, there were only 61 eligible civilian men aged 21 or 22, the Bureau found. Thus the 20 per cent difference in ages compared is because girls generally marry men three years older than themselves. The Census Bureau notes, however, that the reason for the marriage shortage is that so many young men are now in the armed forces. Looks like many of the girls will have to wait a while—or marry a GI.

On the serious side, the Bureau reported that the number of married persons and of families both reached new peaks last year, despite the dearth of new young bridegrooms.

SHORT-SIGHTEDNESS

Experts have told us our school system needs a second-rate curriculum if it is to be saved. And they have warned us that the situation is getting worse by leaps and bounds as the record crops of war children begins to hit the schools in full force.

Yet, Congress has refused to earmark revenues which the federal government will receive from oil deposits and gas fields as a "contingent shelf" for use in building better educational facilities.

The Senate, by a substantial majority, voted in favor of an amendment by Senator Listor Hill of Alabama which would have channelled the oil revenues to educational purposes. But the House voted merely to give the federal government control of the shelf and House conferees refused to accept the Hill proposal.

Many children are getting a second-rate education in a nation which prides itself on being a first-rate democracy. Informed citizens are essential to the well-being of democratic government.

Sooner or later, we will suffer from our own short-sightedness. This prospect should be bothering the conscience of members of the House who, thus far, have refused to designate a rich natural resource to the task of helping to rescue our educational system.—The Interna tional Engineer.

Back the Fight on Polio

With the fight against polio entering the final but most costly phase, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis must seek greater contributions than ever before in its 1953 March of Dimes appeal.

Recognizing this, the Office Employees International Union, always a leader of its great humanitarian program, is taking the unusual course of urging all local unions to adopt the following resolution, inserting the number of the local:

WHEREAS Office Employees International Union has always been a loyal supporter of the infantile paralysis through contributions to the annual March of Dimes; and

WHEREAS the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis through its research has made significant strides against the disease in developing its laboratory, which will provide permanent immunity; and

WHEREAS it has found meanwhile that gamma globulin is a temporary stopgap which is utilizing fully in an effort to minimize epidemics until a permanent vaccine is tested successfully; and

WHEREAS $11,000,000 March of Dimes funds have been allotted to provide gamma globulin, free of charge, for mass injections in epidemic areas to protect America's children; and

WHEREAS despite this added research and expense of mass GC injections in epidemic areas which it is estimated costs $15,000 to protect the one child in 2,000 who, on the average, might contract the disease during an epidemic without this protection; and

WHEREAS the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis meanwhile gives direct financial aid to four out of five polio cases to assist them to recovery through its patient care program, without diminishing its services in professional training, research and education; and

WHEREAS it continues to lead, unify and direct vigorously the fight on polio with every means at its disposal on every front although this involves far greater financial support than it has ever received in the past; and

WHEREAS all members of organized labor directly or indirectly benefit from the services provided by the National Foundation, through patient care or otherwise: Therefore be it

Resolved: That fully recognizing the final but most costly phase which the fight on polio has now entered we urge all members to give urgent and unusual consideration to the 1953 March of Dimes appeal and in their contributions, either individually or collectively, to give more generously than ever before to speed the day of final victory against polio.

Local No. 2 Girls Pool Talent In Aid of Fellow Member

Two hundred and fifteen girls who are members of Office Employees International Union, Local 2, in Washington, D. C., wanted to help a fellow worker in distress and in need and so they pooled their money. Stenographers, clerks, machine operators and other members of Local 2 working for the International Association of Machinists in Washington, devised many methods of helping a member of their ranks who became ill and was hospitalized last November. They put many useful duds for the home. Some deviled into ceramics and other forms of handicraft. Others made cakes, cookies and candy. They then conducted a "bake" sale and arranged for other methods of display which netted a goodly sum. They devised a system of collection where each member contributed weekly toward this fund.

Members of Local 2 working in other offices, becoming aware of the fund's existence, contributed weekly before making decisions. The weekly mailings are filed in two durable ring binders. This organized data is supplemented weekly with a labor bulletin which summarizes important developments about which you should be informed. It includes the weekly Laborgraph which analyzes significant trends.

AFL Membership Tops 10 Million

Membership of the American Federation of Labor is now well over 10 million—the highest in history.

That new milestone in the growth of the "house of Labor" was revealed at the 72nd convention held in St. Louis. OEIU delegates were President Howard Coughlin and Secretary-Treasurer J. Howard Hicks.

President George Meany was re-elected by acclamation, and pledged the delegates that he would give the job "the best I have.

William F. Schnitzler was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer, as were 15 incumbent Vice Presidents, Maurice A. Hutchison, president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and Al J. Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists, were named to the new posts as Fourteenth and Fifteenth Vice Presidents.

Here are some of the other high spots of the big convention:

OEIU Scores Gains in Greyhound Pact

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Local 73 reached a new agreement with Greyhound, Inc., which incorporates the following gains:

A wage increase of 8 cents an hour retroactive to May 1, 1955, with automatic increases of 4 cents an hour effective May 1, 1954, and an additional 4 cents effective May 1, 1955; three weeks' vacation after 12 years of service, and a sick leave program which provides for a maximum of three weeks.

President James Browning, who headed up the negotiations with the advice and help of International Vice President Oscar Badgett, is to be congratulated on this excellent agreement with the Greyhound Company.

the conference, and Frank E. Morton, International Representative, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The meeting in Dallas was addressed by Regional Director Lester Graham, of the A. F. of L., who promised his continued cooperation in the organization of office workers within his region. Organizer James P. Scott, of the A. F. of L., and Charles Birdwell, vice president of the Texas Federation of Labor, also addressed the conference and promised their support and assistance to the organization of white-collar workers.

The International officers intend to continue establishing these conferences and employing additional organizers in rapid succession throughout the entire country and to the greatest extent that the finances of our International Union will allow. As a result of discussions of the delegates present at the Dallas conference, the International officers feel sure that this approach to the problem of the unionization of office workers is a practical and effective one and will receive the fullest support from all of the local unions of the Office Employees International Union.

Although the unionization of office workers in the Southwestern area has been progressing at a fast pace, the formulation of this organizational conference will increase the activity and result in additional progress in the organization of office employees.

Renewal Agreement Boosts Wages 10%

Elyria, Ohio.—A 10 per cent general wage increase, averaging 13 cents an hour, highlights the gains won by OEIU Local 177 in the renewal of its agreement with American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation for the Sunbeam Air Conditioner Division.

Negotiations with management were headed by William E. McCourt, business representative of the local.
Fight By 212 Wins $9,000 Back Pay

In an award handed down by Sidney Pfeifer, president of the Erie County Bar Association, who acted as arbitrator, 100 employees of Loblaw, Inc., at Buffalo, N. Y., received 4½ cents per hour retroactive to December, 1951.

This windfall to our members was brought about through the determined efforts of Buffalo OEIU Local 212 to get for its membership money to which it was entitled, but which was being withheld under a technical interpretation of the law.

In an agreement signed in March, 1952, the company, subject to Wage Stabilization Board approval, agreed to pay a general increase of 10 cents per hour across the board.

Of the 10 cents, 5½ was immediately permissible under General Wage Regulation No. 6. This was paid retroactively to December, 1951. The remaining 4½ cents was petitioned for to the Wage Stabilization Board.

The Regional Board in New York denied the petition and an appeal was also denied. Before the national office of the Wage Stabilization Board could act on the last appeal, the President removed Wage Stabilization regulations on February 6, 1953. The company was then asked to pay this money out in conformity with the agreement.

Loblaws, Inc., refused, saying that the expiration of Wage Stabilization carried with it the denial of appeals then in the hands of the national office. Local 212, in bringing this case to arbitration, contended that the wording of the executive order abolishing the Wage Stabilization Board permitted all pending cases to be put into effect at once.

George Blair, attorney for Local 212; Bill Roberts, president; and Dick Coles, secretary-treasurer, are to be commended for their successful fight for justice in this case. George Firth, International Representative, gave advice and assistance during the course of this matter.

Chevrolet Workers Under OEIU Banner

Saginaw, Mich.—Employees in the chemical department of Chevrolet Grey Iron Foundry recently voted for representation by the OEIU. Negotiations on the initial agreement are underway. Robert G. Corrigan, secretary-treasurer, Local 42, Detroit, played a prominent part in the winning of the NLRB election among the group and is assisting in contract negotiations.

In 1900 the average employee in the U. S. made 33 cents an hour in terms of 1949 prices. Fifty years later the average was $1.43, according to the Committee for Economic Development.

Good Reason To Smile

Standing, left to right: R. J. Carpenter, secretary-treasurer and business agent of Local 277, and W. O. Ware, president.

In the dark of night two safebreakers entered a bank. One approached the safe, sat down on the floor, took off his shoes and socks, and started to turn the dial of the safe with his toes.

"What's the matter with you?" said his pal, "let's open this thing and get out of here."

"Now, it'll take only a minute longer this way and we'll drive them fingerprint experts nuts."

Parson: "So you think you would have run through all your money had it not been for your wife!"

Villager: "I'm sure of it."

Parson: "And, my good man, how did she stop your spending it all?"

Villager: "She spent it first!"

"What has 24 feet, green eyes and a pink body with purple stripes?"

"I don't know. What?"

"I don't know either, but you had better pick it off your neck."

Passenger in bus: "Is smoking permitted, conductor?"

Conductor: "No."

Conductor: "From people who didn't ask questions."

He—I suppose you dance. She—Oh, yes! I love to! He—Great. That's better than dancing.

Substantial improvements in the health and welfare plan, which is a part of the agreement between the union and the company, were also gained.
